DAVE HILL

In 2007 Dave's boss wrote the following in an annual performance review:

“Dave is a master of using his sense of humor to diffuse tension. When he is around, the atmosphere becomes more friendly and cooperative. He always sees the humor in things, helping to avoid or defuse difficult situations”.

As an engineer, public speaker, coach, or volunteer Dave has identified creative ways to bring fun-energy to workplaces

OVERVIEW

This program provides ideas you can use immediately to enhance the workplace. It identifies the importance of individuals, groups and leaders, incorporating a sense of levity into day-to-day activities.

A respectful, trusting workplace that exudes energy and balanced fun is where workers want to spend their careers and follow their passion.

This workplace environment increases creativity, performance, morale, reduces turnover and helps attract talent.
